Thanksgiving Turkey Takeout at The Village Anchor

Anchorage, KY — For Immediate Release • November 26, 2025

The Village Anchor is hosting its annual Thanksgiving Turkey Takeout today, with hundreds of complete holiday meals boxed, chilled, labeled, and organized for seamless guest pickup. All meals were pre-reserved, and today's operation ensures families across Louisville receive a full Thanksgiving feast that is easy to warm, finish, and present beautifully at home.

"This is one of our favorite days to watch behind the scenes," said founder Kevin Grangier.

"Thanksgiving is important to so many families, and we love being the part that makes the day easier for them."

The Village Anchor's Thanksgiving Turkey Takeout program has become one of the most anticipated holiday traditions for hundreds of Louisville families, with demand increasing every year. Although this year's takeout is sold out, guests are encouraged to pre-order early for next season.

Visual / Coverage Opportunity (Available Until 5 PM Today)

Local media are invited now through 3 pm today to capture this highly visual, community-centered holiday operation. Coverage opportunities include:

- Rows of boxed and labeled Thanksgiving meals in a chilled staging area
- Behind-the-scenes activity with the culinary and hospitality teams
- Guest pickup interactions (with permission)
- Seasonal ambiance and The Village Anchor's holiday décor

This is an ideal opportunity for holiday lifestyle, community, human-interest, and local food-culture coverage.
